

AVERAGE YEARLY AND MONTHLY TEMPERATURE AND AVERAGE
YEARLY AMPLITUDE FROM THE CRISUL REPEDE HYDROGRAPHIC BASIN

Ana Cornelia Moza , Mariana Popovic

Abstract

The air temperature presents a series of characteristics: depending upon the altitude characterized by a decrease of values of air temperature as the altitude increases, depending upon the orientation and declivity of slopes characterized by different heating.

The average of air temperature expresses the medium state of succession in time of thermic values, allowing the comparison of climate characteristics of different geographical units.